9. The Defendants operate a restaurant enterprise under the trade name "Mangia." SERVICES MANGIA, INC operates "Mangia" restaurant located at 16 EAST 48TH STREET, NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10017. MANGIA 23RD STREET LLC operates

“Mangia” restaurant located at 22 WEST 23RD STREET, NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10010. MANGIA 57, INC. operates “Mangia” restaurant located at 50 West 57TH STREET, NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10019. Employees were freely interchangeable, the various business operations were marketed as one entity, and all employees were paid by the same payroll methods, and checks were paid by the same entity.

10. At all relevant times, each of the Corporate Defendants was and continues to be an “enterprise engaged in commerce” within the meaning of the FLSA.

11. At all relevant times, the work performed by Plaintiffs were directly essential to the business operated by Defendants.

FLSA COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

12. Plaintiffs bring claims for relief as a collective action pursuant to FLSA Section 16(b), 29 U.S.C. § 216(b), on behalf of all non-exempt persons employed by Defendants on or after the date that is three years before the filing of the Complaint in this case as defined herein (“FLSA Collective Plaintiffs”).

13. At all relevant times, Plaintiffs and the other FLSA Collective Plaintiffs are and have been similarly situated, have had substantially similar job requirements and pay provisions, and are and have been subjected to Defendants’ decisions, policies, plans, programs, practices, procedures, protocols, routines, and rules, all culminating in a willful failure and refusal to pay them the proper minimum wage and overtime premium at the rate of one and one half times the regular rate for work in excess of forty (40) hours per workweek. The claims of Plaintiffs stated herein are essentially the same as those of the other FLSA Collective Plaintiffs. Specifically, Plaintiffs and FLSA Collective Plaintiffs who were tipped employees claim that Defendants willfully violated their rights by failing to pay their minimum wages in the lawful amount for hours worked. Defendants, however, were not entitled to take any tip credits under the FLSA, because they failed to properly provide notice to all tipped employees that Defendants were taking a tip credit.

14. The claims for relief are properly brought under and maintained as an opt-in collective action pursuant to §16(b) of the FLSA, 29 U.S.C. 216(b). The FLSA Collective Plaintiffs are readily ascertainable. For purposes of notice and other purposes related to this action, their names and addresses are readily available from the Defendants. Notice can be provided to the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs via first class mail to the last address known to Defendants.

RULE 23 CLASS ALLEGATIONS – NEW YORK

15. Plaintiffs bring claims for relief pursuant to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (“F.R.C.P.”) Rule 23, on behalf of all non-exempt persons employed by Defendants on or after the date that is six years before the filing of the Complaint in this case as defined herein (the “Class Period”).

16. All said persons, including Plaintiffs, are referred to herein as the “Class.” The Class members are readily ascertainable. The number and identity of the Class members are determinable from the records of Defendants. The hours assigned and worked, the position held, and rates of pay for each Class member are also determinable from Defendants’ records. For purposes of notice and other purposes related to this action, their names and addresses are readily available from Defendants. Notice can be provided by means permissible under F.R.C.P. 23.

17. The proposed Class is numerous that a joinder of all members is impracticable, and the disposition of their claims as a class will benefit the parties and the Court. Although the precise number of such persons is unknown, the facts on which the calculation of that number are presently within the sole control of Defendants, there is no doubt that there are more than forty (40) members of the Class.

18. Plaintiffs' claims are typical of those claims, which could be alleged by any member of the Class, and the relief sought is typical of the relief, which would be sought by each member of the Class in separate actions. All the Class members were subject to the same corporate practices of Defendants, as alleged herein, of (i) failing to pay overtime compensation, and (ii) failing to provide proper wage and hour notice to Class members, at date of hiring and annually, per requirements of the New York Labor Law. In addition, a subclass of Class members who were tipped employees suffered from Defendants' failure to pay minimum wage (based on Defendants' invalid tip credit). Defendants' corporate-wide policies and practices affected all Class members similarly, and Defendants benefited from the same type of unfair and/or wrongful acts as to each Class member. Plaintiffs and other Class members sustained similar losses, injuries and damages arising from the same unlawful policies, practices and procedures.

19. Plaintiffs are able to fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class and have no interests antagonistic to the Class. Plaintiffs are represented by attorneys who are experienced and competent in both class action litigation and employment litigation and have previously represented Plaintiffs in wage and hour cases.

20. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy — particularly in the context of the wage and hour litigation where individual class members lack the financial resources to vigorously prosecute a lawsuit against corporate defendants. Class action treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently, and without the unnecessary duplication of efforts and expense that numerous individual actions engender. Because of losses, injuries and damages suffered by each of the individual Class members are small in the sense pertinent to a class action analysis, the expenses and burden of individual litigation would make it extremely difficult or impossible for the individual Class members to redress the wrongs done to them. On the other hand, important public interests will be served by addressing the matter as a class action. The adjudication of individual litigation claims would result in a great expenditure of Court and public resources; however, treating the claims as a class action would result in a significant saving of these costs. The prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Class would create a risk of inconsistent and/or varying adjudications with respect to the individual members of the Class, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendant and resulting in the impairment of class members' rights and the disposition of their interests through actions to which they were not parties. The issues in this action can be decided by means of common, class-wide proof. In addition, if appropriate, the Court can, and is empowered to, fashion methods to efficiently manage this action as a class action.

21. Defendants and other employers throughout the state violate the New York Labor Law. Current employees are often afraid to assert their rights out of fear of direct or indirect retaliation. Former employees are fearful of bringing claims because doing so can harm their employment, future employment, and future efforts to secure employment. Class actions provide class members who are not named in the Complaint a degree of anonymity, which allows for the vindication of their rights while eliminating or reducing these risks.

22. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class which predominate over any questions affecting only individual class members, including:

- a) Whether Defendants employed Plaintiffs and the Class within the meaning of the New York law;
- b) What are and were the policies, practices, programs, procedures, protocols and plans of Defendants regarding the types of work and labor for which Defendants did not pay the Class members properly;
- c) At what common rate, or rates subject to common methods of calculation, was and are Defendants required to pay the Class members for their work;
- d) Whether Defendants properly notified Plaintiffs and the Class members of their hourly rate and overtime rate;
- e) Whether Defendants properly provided notice to all tipped employees that Defendants were taking a tip credit;
- f) Whether Defendants took proper amount of tip credit allowance under the New York Labor Law;

- g) Whether Defendants provided proper wage and hour notice, at date of hiring and annually, to all non-exempt employees per requirements of the New York Labor Law;
- h) Whether Defendants caused tipped employees to engage in non-tipped duties exceeding 20% of each workday;
- i) Whether Defendants paid Plaintiffs and Class members the federal and state minimum wage for all hours worked;
- j) Whether Defendants properly compensated Plaintiffs and Class members for overtime under state and federal law; and
- k) Whether Defendants failed to properly compensate Plaintiffs and Class members for all their hours work due to a policy of time shaving and failing to correctly track the hours worked by Plaintiffs and Class members.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

23. In or about November, 2010, Plaintiff, ANTHONY CAMILO, was hired by Defendants to work as a delivery person for Defendants at their “Mangia” restaurant, located at 16 East 48th Street, New York, New York 10017. During holidays, when the restaurants were busy, Plaintiff, CAMILO worked at the other two “Mangia” restaurants each located at 50 West 57th Street and 22 West 23rd Street. During his employment, Plaintiff, CAMILO, had a regular weekly work schedule of 6am to 3pm, for 5 days per week. From November 2010 to August 2011, Plaintiff, CAMILO, was paid an hourly rate of $4.50 per hour. From August 2011 to the present, Plaintiff, CAMILO was paid an hourly rate of $5.00 per hour. At all times, Plaintiff, CAMILO, was a tipped employee and was paid below the tip credit minimum wage for delivery persons, even assuming a valid tip credit allowance. Plaintiff CAMILO is currently still employed by Defendants.

24. In or about May, 2012, Plaintiff, LUIS SANCHEZ, was hired by Defendants to work as a delivery person for Defendants at their "Mangia" restaurant, located at 16 East 48th Street, New York, New York 10017. Plaintiff SANCHEZ often went to the other two "Mangia" restaurant located at 50 West 57th Street and 22 West 23rd Street to pick up inventory. During his employment, Plaintiff, SANCHEZ, had a regular weekly work schedule of 6am to 2pm, for 5 days per week. Plaintiff, SANCHEZ, was paid an hourly rate of $5.00 per hour. At all times, Plaintiff, SANCHEZ, was a tipped employee and was paid below the tip credit minimum wage for delivery persons even assuming a valid tip credit allowance. Plaintiff SANCHEZ worked for Defendants until on or about June 2012. .

25. Plaintiffs and Class members did not receive any notice that Defendants were taking a tip credit. In addition, they did not receive any notice as to the amount of tip credit allowance taken for each payment period during their employment. They were also never informed in writing as to their hourly rate of pay and overtime rate of pay.

26. Plaintiffs and other tipped employees were required to engage more than 20% of their working time in non-tipped related activities such as preparing and packing food, cleaning the restaurant, and other non-tip related activities. Such activities were unrelated to their primary duties as delivery persons.

27. Plaintiffs, FLSA Collective Plaintiffs and Class members' paystubs did not accurately reflect their working hours. Employees were required clean the restaurant for an hour after their shift ended only after they clocked out. Such time shaving policy resulted in a reduction of wages for hours worked equal to approximately an hour daily for all non-exempt employees.

28. Defendants unlawfully failed to pay the Plaintiffs, the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs, and members of the Class the Federal and State minimum wage for all hours worked. Plaintiffs, the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs, and members of the Class often worked in excess of forty hours per week.

29. Defendants unlawfully failed to pay the Plaintiffs, the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs, and members of the Class one-and-one-half times New York State and federal minimum wage for hours they worked over 40 in a workweek.

30. Defendants failed to keep track of the daily amount of tips received by Plaintiffs, FLSA Collective Plaintiffs and Class members, and also failed to keep the proper employment records required under the FLSA and NYLL.

31. For the hours that Defendants did pay Plaintiffs, Defendants paid Plaintiffs, the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs and the Class members, invalid "tip credit" minimum wage, which is less than the federal and New York State minimum wages. Defendants were not entitled to take any tip credits under the FLSA or NYLL, because they (i) exceeded the maximum amount of tip credit allowance that could be claimed under the NYLL, (ii) failed to properly provide notice to all tipped employees that Defendants were taking a tip credit in violation of the FLSA and NYLL, (iii) failed to provide proper wage statements informing tipped employees of the amount of tip credit taken for each payment period in violation of the NYLL, and (iv) caused tipped employees to engage in non-tipped duties exceeding 20% of each workday in violation of NYLL.

32. Defendants failed to properly notify Plaintiffs, the FLSA Collective Plaintiffs, and Class members of their hourly rate of pay and overtime rate of pay, in direct violation of the New York Labor Law. Defendants also failed to provide proper wage and hour notices, at the date of hiring and annually, to all non-exempt employees in violation of the requirements of the New York Labor Law.

33. Defendants knowingly and willfully operated their business with a policy of not paying either the FLSA minimum wage or the New York State minimum wage to the Plaintiffs, FLSA Collective Plaintiffs and Class members due to the invalid tip credit that Defendants claimed.

34. Defendants knowingly and willfully operated their business with a policy of not paying either the FLSA overtime rate (of time and one-half) or the New York State overtime rate (of time and one-half) to the Plaintiffs, FLSA Collective Plaintiffs and Class members for all hours worked in excess of 40 hours per week.

35. Plaintiffs retained Lee Litigation Group, PLLC to represent Plaintiffs, FLSA Collective Plaintiffs and Class members, in this litigation and have agreed to pay the firm a reasonable fee for its services.
